

CHAPTER 2: Internet Resources Links

<http://www.gettinghired.com>

GettingHired provides a service for both job seekers and employers based on behavioral assessment methodologies. In conjunction with standard job screening parameters, the end result matches individuals with the opportunities that are right for them.

<http://www.job.com>

Simple title, simple motto: Job.com's got "Gear for Your Career."

<http://www.jobsearch.org>

America's Job Bank posts thousands of jobs and career opportunities daily.

<http://www.monster.com>

You can double your chances of getting that job by posting your resume and searching the jobs' database at Monster.com.

<http://www.selfgrowth.com>

This site provides information on topics ranging from goal setting and stress management to natural health and alternative medicine.

<http://www.stats.bls.gov>

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is the principal fact-finding agency for the Federal Government in the fields of labor economics and statistics. The BLS needs economists, mathematical statisticians, computer specialists, administrative and financial specialists, and many types of technicians and assistants. The number of vacancies is difficult to predict, but some positions are available at most times.

<http://www.susanireland.com>

Susan Ireland is a Berkeley, California resumé professional and author of four job search books, three software packages, and an instructional video.